

LIVESTOCK TALENT PROGRAMME

Enjoy an office outdoors.

Your pathway to a future career with Silver Fern Farms.

Are you keen to put your passion for agriculture into action? Over the next few years you could be working your way to becoming a Livestock Rep.

At Silver Fern Farms we're all about Creating Goodness from the Farms the World Needs. Our Livestock Team are a crucial part of making this a reality. Livestock Reps look after five regions across the country, building and maintaining relationships every day. They partner with our farmers to ensure that quality products are being produced and quality stock is being bought, so that customers all over the globe can experience the goodness we create.

The Livestock Talent Programme is an opportunity for you to kick-start your career as a Livestock Rep in a global food marketing business. You'll be learning, developing and building your skillset on the job. You don't need any prior experience or qualifications – you just need a bit of background in farming or agriculture, and to bring your curiosity and a can-do attitude – we'll teach you the rest.

Phase 1:

Onboard and Induct

- Get experience working across New Zealand – you'll work with multiple Reps through the North and South Island for the better part of a year, so bring your sense of adventure and get ready to pack your bags!

Phase 2:

Placement

- Be placed in one of five regions – covering the breadth of New Zealand.
- You'll have a mentor (a current Livestock Rep) to guide you and help you continue to learn.

Phase 3:

Final phase

- By now you've learned the ropes and will be placed in your permanent role and location.
- You'll be settled into your new home and be looking forward to creating your own lasting relationships with our farmers.

Come be part of Creating Goodness from the Farms the World Needs, with us!
